Current Comment

By R. H. K.

The opinions (if any) expressed herein, are not necessarily those of The Campbell Press.

Being on the eve, one might say, of the presidential election, and with everything having been said (over and over again) in behalf of both candidates, it would seem the smart thing to refrain from further comment on the so important event.

It is that very importance, however, coupled with the fact that few newspaper people are satisfied to drop any subject without the last possible word, that was the deciding factor in my determination to offer a brief review of the set-up as it now appears to me.

In the first place, it must be admitted that Mr. Roosevelt stands a mighty good chance of being re-elected. Every voter who has benefited in one way or another by the largess dispensed so lavishly by the current administration is a potential Roosevelt vote — and those beneficiaries are indeed numerous. And those who administer the various relief projects form almost a united front for the New Deal; they too are numerous (or should we say too numerous?). And the biggest, most unscrupulous political machines ever built up in this country are also behind the President to a man.

Willkie adherents will find this tremendous organization, with its eight-year-old campaign fund of millions in public money, considerable of an obstacle in the path of their candidate.

And here are some of the things that too many people have lost sight of during the pyramiding years of our national depression: 1. That no administration would have let the unemployed and other unfortunates starve to death; 2. That the administration of the relief program has been inefficiently handled, resulting in less money for relief and more for others; 3. That in a great many instances work relief projects have resulted in an almost 100 per cent loss of the money invested; 4. That politics have gotten into relief to such an extent that it threatened at one time to develop into a national stink of no mean proportions; 5. And that with all of the work-relief, manufactured jobs, and other "pump priming," the unemployment problem is almost as serious today as it was at the very height of the depression.

The administration has been "friendly to labor." That is always a good line, and there is an element of truth in it, too. But it has also been too friendly with the Bridges type of leader, and it has retained, for eight troubled years, the services of an incompetent woman as secretary of labor. In short, labor, whether it knows it or not, is little better off today than it was eight years ago, and whatever improvement there is was accomplished by labor itself—not by the administration which so eagerly takes

At long last plans for the changing of Campbell's telephone system to dial operation were announced last week by H. V. Mann, manager for the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company.

"The Campbell area," explained Mann, "has shown an increase in the number of telephone users and is growing so rapidly that the present telephone equipment will soon be inadequate.

"Plans for a new central office are now being drawn up and it is expected that the dial service will be available to Campbell subscribers by the latter part of 1941."

Mann stated to the Press that the present office equipment will be enlarged by another board in the near future to supply immediate needs while the future arrangements will be completed and established.

Turkey Dinner Enjoyed by Sigmas

The Sigma Sigma group met last week in the church parlors for a turkey dinner at which about 30 members were present.

When full justice had been paid to the delicious meal, a short business meeting was held and the remainder of the evening was spent in games.

One of the recent activities of the club was an evening spent at the Campbell Union Grammar school helping Mrs. Esther Short repair the clothing brought in by the pupils to be used for needy families.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Irene Strong, 25 Alice avenue, with Mrs. Edith Granstrom assisting hostess.

Mrs. Jessie Turner Called by Death Early Wednesday

News of the passing of Mrs. Jessie C. Turner at her home yesterday, was not unexpected by her friends, as she had been ill for some time. Another attack of heart trouble Sunday following a slight come back, resulted in a coma from which she did not regain consciousness.

Mrs. Turner, wife of the late James Turner, was a native of Nova Scotia. She had lived in the valley for almost 40 years and on the ranch south of Campbell on Winchester road, since 1915.

Last May, she and her husband returned to Massachusetts for a visit and while in West Medford, the home of Mrs. Turner's sister, Mrs. Nancy Nutting, Mr. Turner was taken ill and passed away.

Mrs. Nutting accompanied her sister back to Campbell some weeks ago and has been her faithful attendant and companion since.

The Turner home, which has a party room, was the scene of many delightful social events in the decade or more following its remodelling and occupancy. Mrs. Turner held her house open for all kinds of meetings and gatherings during the last World War period. She was interested in numerous welfare societies and in helping charities. A most gracious hostess she made these various groups feel a personal welcome to her home.

Private funeral services will be held tomorrow (Friday) at the chapel of the Marques Funeral Home in Santa Clara, with private inurnment at the Chapel of the Roses, Oak Hill Memorial park. Friends are requested to omit flowers.

VOTE NOVEMBER 5!

With the record-breaking number of 4,052,395 citizens in California qualified to vote on November 5, the fasting approaching election day should bring to the polls the greatest army of voters this state has ever known.

But something more than the sheer numerical strength of 1940's voting populace should ensure a mammonth march to the ballot boxes next week. Probably no more fateful election has ever confronted the American public than in this grim hour with world-wide alliances of unfriendly powers menacing the free institutions of free nations. It is possible this historic November 5 may prove to be among the last truly free elections of our times. No citizen can wisely disregard his duty to vote, and of exercising that privilege with full regard for the consequences of his choice.

In making a decision, voters should ignore the utterly false charge that they must vote for the party in which they are registered. The should disregard the foolish threat that government employees must vote the "party line" or face discharge. Let them remember that the secret ballot which America still possesses reduces such a warning to simply a bluff.

There still remains that crucial issue which the ballots of the American people must decide. And that it whether the nation is to abide by the long-respected democratic tradition, first spoken by the Founding Fathers and oft reaffirmed since, which opposes any president's continuance in office for more than two terms lest it pave the way to dictatorial power being seized, and kept, in the hands of one power-hungry man.

November 5 is a historic day. Let every citizen play his part in it!

LET THERE BE LIGHT

Of the 17 proposals on the state ballot which will greet the eyes of some 4 million California voters on November 5, only one so far has claimed any wide attention. It is likewise the only measure of an embattled political season which has produced any entertainment as its by-product.

This is, of course, Proposal No. 5, the Daylight Saving Initiative. Outside a few well-wishers who have nothing to support it with save enthusiasm, the measure has no backing, not even from the oil industry which would stand to gain by it. Its chief opposition comes from Hollywood which fears too much daylight will hurt theater attendance. To argue its point the movie industry has been distributing comic "shorts" portraying the "dire" effects such a law would produce.

As an example of light-hearted spoofing of the public, the capsule comedies are by no means dull. But as clues to what daylight saving really is, they leave something lacking.

If voters are sincerely interested in passing intelligent judgment on No. 5 on November 5, they should know that this spring and summer some 75 million Americans in the rest of the country lived under daylight saving with no ill effects, either for farmers or the motion picture industry, and that for these 75 million it created a 3½ to 4 hour daily afternoon and early evening daylight period which they could devote to driving, gardening, swimming or other recreations. By increasing the number of hours available for daylight driving, it has been a safety factor for summer tourist travel on highways and in city traffic. By increasing the number of hours available for outdoor recreation it has added to citizens' physical well-being.

Neither a menace nor a cure-all, daylight saving is simply a plan which the vast majority of Americans have long since approved because it has added to their enjoyment of living.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS

The Tawasi girls welcomed in six members from another high school group of Campfire Girls with the keenest of enthusiasm. The reason for the merger of the Tawasi and Aokiya group is that the guardian of the Aokiyas can no longer be with them. The new members are Mabel Allen, Norma Herring, Iola Semas, Ruth Cousins, Jean Bocca, Jackie Mitchell and Carol Ann Van Arsdale.

The business meeting, held under President Betty Jurras, was dispensed with as quickly as possible in order to get at the main events of the evening. The theme was Hallowe'en. In the attractively decorated hall mid witches and goblins the girls played many games and comic movies were shown by Jane Gerrans.

Refreshments consisted of candy, peanuts, pop corn balls and a variety of soft drinks.

On the entertainment and clean-up committee were the following girls: Ginger Hasselman, chairman; Jane Gerrans, Carol Lantz, Roberta Field, Ernestine Fahler and Jane Taylor.

Thomas Endorses Elmer Weymouth

Dana Thomas, third candidate in the primary election race for 31st district assemblyman, and pioneer resident of Willow Glen, this week announced his endorsement of the candidacy of Elmer Weymouth, nominee for the southern Santa Clara county post.

Another important endorsement came from George Keith economist and Santa Clara county chairman of Taxpayers United, a national organization devoted to economy in government.

Keith, who is nationally known as a scholar and writer on economic matters, said he has made a study of extravagance in government, and after interviewing Weymouth was "convinced that he is the man to send to Sacramento to represent the people."

Weymouth will speak on campaign issues Monday night, Nov. 4, over station KQW, San Jose, at 6:45 p. m.

— Go to the polls Nov. 5 —

The old Campbell Packing company plant, orignally the George E. Hyde plant, is now open for the receipt of substandard prunes. This is receiving station for prune prorate zone No. 1. the credit.

While the President is an idealist, with many meritorious ideas (some of which have worked), and while it is plain to all that he believes he has the foreign policy of this nation well in hand, it must be pointed out that Mr. Roosevelt is still struggling along in the fog that finally overwhelmed Mr. Chamberlain and his friends across the channel. His every move in the matter of foreign policy has placed us ever closer to the front in the present conflict abroad. And his belligerent attitude is little in keeping with the quite apparent fact that the United States is not prepared to back up very much in the way of threats, except, perhaps, those "sharp notes" directed at Japan.

The final indictment lies in the fact that when the administration finally woke up to the necessity of national defense, it was unable, and still seems to be unable, to get the wheels rolling. The program is still on paper, and unless we can secure more efficient administration a good share of it is likely to remain there for many months. These are facts pretty well known to everybody who keeps track of actual events, and is not misled by movie news shots of the launching of ships which were actually under construction before "national defense" became our two most popular words.

We are urged not to "change horses in the middle of the stream." And yet, if England hadn't done just that very thing, the British Empire might even now be but a smouldering ruin. Happily, the British retain the right to dispense with the services of their incompetents whenever they choose. This is our last chance for four years. We had better make the most of it, for another four years like the past eight might well see the failure of the party system. And that, after all, would mean the failure of democracy, and make the voting booth a hollow mockery indeed.

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR
Executive Secretary Agricultural Council of California

The State Fish and Game commission, which recently crashed into Page 1 headlines again—due to the disclosure that state patrol boats were being used for pleasure junkets by members of the commission and their political friends—has been under fire at frequent intervals for years past.

Sportsmen and commercial fishermen—and farmers, a s well — have been dissatisfied with the commission's activities — and with the type of men appointed to its membership.

Generally, it might be said that the commission has borne a bad reputation.

Proposition No. 8 on the November ballot, designed to inaugurate staggered terms, to make appointments subject to confirmation by the state senate and to prevent any governor from controlling the commission, may help to improve the situation. But all the safeguards that can be thrown around the commission will not provide a satisfactory substitute for good appointments.

Speaker Gordon Garland of the Assembly, and Assemblyman Harrison W. Call of Redwood City, who sign the argument in favor o f No. 8, declare:

"This proposition will remove the Fish and Game commissioners from political influence by: 1. Providing a non-salaried board of five commissioners. 2. Appointment of commissioners for staggered terms so that no one administration can dominate the commission. 3. The governor's appointments of commissioners are to be confirmed by the senate which will nullify poor appointments."

The weakness in the proposal, of course, is that all five members of the first comcission appointed under the new act would be named by the same governor. If the governor could be induced to appoint only high-type, able men to the commission—or if the senate could be depended upon to refuse confirmation of weak appointments—there would undoubtedly be a decided improvement in the commission under the new setup.

Proposition No. 12,authorizing the legislature to appoint legislative investigating committees which will conduct inquiries between sessions, is a proposal of doubtful value.

In fairness to the legislature, it should be stated that the interim committees which investigated relief expenditures and questionable relief practices, rendered a very valuable service to the taxpayers and to the state as a whole. But except for the relief investigations, most legislative committees, operating between sessions, have accomplished little and cost much.

The voters' phamplet, however, carries no official argument against the proposition. And Assemblyman Melvyn I. Cronin of San Francisco, arguing in favor of the proposal presents his case as follows:

"A legislative body cannot legislate wisely or effectively respecting the conditions which the legislation is intended to affect or change. The acquisition of this information can best be attained by committees of the legislature operating not only during the regular session, but before and after as well.

"From time immemorial the legislature has appointed fact-finding and study committees for the purpose of aiding that body in considering legislation. A recent court decision has held, however, that this practice in our state is without constitutional authority. Hence, it now becomes necessary, in order that proper legislative procedure may not be interrupted, to supply that authority by the adoption of this amendment."

— Vote early on Nov. 5 —

R. H. Hyde was in Los Angeles last week attending the convention of the American Water works association in session at the Biltmore Hotel Oct. 23 to 26. He had on display samples of his patented Hyde-Ro Ring and the implements for its use, which received much careful examination. The invention is receiving nation wide consideration since the publicity given it recently in a trade magazine.

Campaign For Civil Service In County Continues

The campaign for the county amendment providing for civil service in the selection of Santa Clara county employees gained momentum this week as the Santa Clara County Federation of Women's clubs joined the growing list of groups and organizations sponsoring the plan.

Clubs and groups already working to lower county operating costs by putting county employees under civil servvice include Democratic Women's Study clubs, San Jose Pro-America, Santa Clara Taxpayers league, Better Government league, Italo-American association, Slavonic Alliance, Palo Alto League of Women Voters and Santa Clara County Employee's association.

Individuals who are explaining amendments to various groups and boosting for the county amendment include State Senator John Foley, Assemblyman Byrl Salsman and M. G. Del Mutolo; former assemblyman C. C. Cottrell, former Senator Herbert C. Jones and ex-congressman, Arthur M. Free.

PLAY SAFE!!

In 1932 the Third Term Candidate promised:

"Taxes are paid in the sweat of every man who labors, and I regard reduction in federal spending as the most direct and effective contribution the Government can make to business."

In Eight Years the Third Term Candidate has

Spent over 65 billion dollars (not including defense appropriations) or 44 per cent as much as all taxes collected during the other 144 years of our nation's life. Our defense program is still "on order" and 9,600,000 unemployed are still waiting for "the more abundant life."

On October 23, 1940, the Third Term Candidate Promised:

"We will not participate in foreign wars and we will not send our army, naval or air forces to fight in foreign lands outside the Americas except in case of attack."

In The Four Years To Come

Can we depend on this promise when others have been broken by Roosevelt before,

Are we safe from that "attack" with a President who calls other nations names, while failing to provide an adequate defense and discouraging the industry that could provide it—and jobs for the unemployed?
